NOTE TO THE READER:

Chicanos: A Checklist of Current Materials has been regularly issued by the Colección Tloque Nahuaque since 1972. A ten-year run, covering the period from September, 1972 to December, 1982, is available as ED 233 827 from the Educational Resources Information Center (ERIC) A separate ERIC document, ED 247 059 is available for the period January to December, 1983, with subsequent annual issues to follow.

Beginning with the last issue the masthead was redesigned to give the publication a more finished look. The new two-tone color scheme will now be uniform for each issue. Red and black ink, the ancient Mexican metaphor for writing and knowledge, will be used hereafter in the covers of Chicanos. Tloque Nahuaque, in his aspect as Quetzalcoatl, patron of learning and the arts, is recalled in motif and symbol. It is in the 'calmecac' (House of Knowledge) and 'amoxcalli' (House of Books) that the skills of 'in tlilli, in tlapal'i' (the red and the black) are taught, practiced, and conserved. The figures are adapted from the Codex Mendoza, a 16th century document describing Aztec society.

The primary purpose of Chicanos is to inform you about current monographic acquisitions in the field of Chicano Area Studies in the Colección Tloque Nahuaque. We are presently working on a cumulative index which we will publish.

Please take a moment and let us know how you have used Chicanos, how it may have benefited your work, and let us know if you wish to continue receiving it.
